

FELINE ANNUAL WELLNESS EXAMS

The Importance of a Physical Examination:

An annual physical examination is an important tool in detecting abnormalities and concerns early before they become more serious. Catching problems early saves your pet unnecessary discomfort and expensive treatment. Animals age much faster than humans. Rapid changes can occur over the course of a year.

The Importance of Vaccinations:

Vaccines are an essential step towards a healthy immune system for your pet. You will be protecting your friend from diseases such as Rabies, FVRCP (Rhinitis, Calicivirus, Panleukopenia), FeLV (Feline Leukemia)

What is a FeLV/FIV TEST?

1. Feline Leukemia (FeLV) – This infectious disease is highly contagious and can be transmitted by infected cats through fluid, such as nasal discharge and blood. This virus weakens the immune system which can lead to other possibly fatal diseases
2. FIV (Feline Immunodeficiency Virus) – This virus is like HIV. It attacks and weakens the immune system. It is transmitted through bite wounds

What is Fecal Testing?

A test used to detect intestinal parasites in your dog. These parasites may include worms (such as hookworms, roundworms, and whipworms) and microscopic parasites (such as Giardia or Coccidia). Some can also be infectious to people!

The Importance of Blood Testing:

Animals are very good at masking illness, and illness may be present even when they appear to be healthy. If disease can be detected BEFORE showing signs of illness, we can often take steps to manage or correct it before permanent damage occurs. These tests give us the opportunity to monitor changes with their organs, electrolyte balances and glucose levels.

Please consider Parasite Prevention to help protect against Fleas, Ticks and Heartworm. Ask your veterinarian which one is right for your pet.
